A service of the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention

Juvenile Justice Clearinghouse

America's youth and the communities in which they live face difficult and diverse problems. As a dedicated juvenile justice professional, you need the latest, most comprehensive information to meet these challenges. To give you quick and easy access to juvenile justice information and resources to help you do your job better, the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) established the Juvenile Justice Clearinghouse (JJC) in 1979. JJC links you to publications, research findings, and program information from the Nation's foremost experts. Put the Clearinghouse to work for you—most of JJC's services are free.

- Conveniently access our information via a toll-free number and mail. We answer more than 48,000 requests for information annually.
- Receive the latest juvenile justice information found in OJJDP publications, including the journal Juvenile Justice, Reports, Summaries, Bulletins, and Fact Sheets. We distribute more than one-half million copies annually.
- View and receive information online instantly. OJJDP publications and other information are available via the Internet, fax services, and other electronic media. You can even subscribe to JUVJUST, OJJDP's electronic newsletter.

- Learn what other information is available in your area of interest. The Clearinghouse has a document collection and data base of more than 30,000 juvenile justice titles, accessible online and through CD-ROM and other data base products. The collection is one of the most comprehensive juvenile justice holdings in the world, with more than 1,000 new titles added each year.
- Look for us at national, State, and local juvenile justice and youth-service conferences. OJJDP publications and information are shared with some 75,000 attendees annually.

Help Us Help You

To serve you better, we need to hear from you. Tell us what is working in juvenile justice in your community so we can share your successful strategies with others. Let us know what types of information would help you do your job more effectively. Just send us your ideas and suggestions by mail, fax, or online services.
